Fun Fact

The Dutch phrase "in de pekel zitten" refers to vegetables or meats left to sit in a vinegary brine.

In modern English, the phrase "in a pickle" has come to mean a difficult time, perhaps when one's only option is to sit and stew for a while.

Sweetspire

This shrub is found among wetlands and along stream banks. It can tolerate a wide range of soil and light conditions. Growing 4 to 8 feet tall, with graceful arching branches and fragrant bottlebrush-like flower clusters that appear in late spring, it boasts beautiful fall foliage. Its leaf colors range from copper to orange to gold, and last into winter. – Brenda Weaver

Bewitched Bingo

I begin to get excited as soon as the giant spider climbs up and sits atop our local coffee shack. Our tiny town loves Halloween and we decorate at Christmas levels. The real estate office next to the coffee shack puts up a huge net for the spider, while down the street, the hardware store boasts a whole line of pumpkins from the little two-inch type all the way up to a big 30-inch.

Witches were very popular this year, and several varieties were on display. The giant outdoor giraffe advertising a boutique called, you guessed it Giraffe, was even sporting a witch hat, while the big pig across the street was jaunty in his clown attire.

Our favorite Bingo hall sponsored a Halloween special two days before the big event that was loads of fun. Several games were made up especially for the holiday, the first being a witch's hat which consisted of: the third B; the second I; the top N; the second G; then a line across the middle, fun but didn't take long for someone to win.

The next special game was a broomstick, which was the N row, the bottom B then next to bottom I, the next to bottom G and the bottom O. That proved a little harder, but Kate won it and was proud to proclaim her Bingo.

The Jack O Lantern was a blackout, minus two, which also went pretty fast and all too soon the evening was nearly over. We had one more big surprise in the shape of a giant male witch—wait, are they called warlocks? He circulated the room, handing out fun-size candy bars to the participants. I am particularly fond of Snickers, although candy I do not need. I ate and enjoyed it anyway.

The next day was Trick or Treat Night when all the little kids dress up and collect candy from the merchants. The streets are blocked off so the little ones stay safe and can have a grand time running through town. Superman and Spiderman were very popular, and I kept running into varieties of their costumes.

I volunteered to help keep the Social Center open for potty breaks and give out candy. I love seeing all the little kids dressed up. This year we also sold baked potatoes as a fundraiser and they were sure good, what with all the toppings available—and certainly better fuel for the body than straight candy.

One little boy came dressed as pile of leaves, and to this day I don't think I'll ever see such a cute costume.

Toward the end of the evening, there was a disturbance outside our door that concerned me somewhat. When I went to see what it was, I discovered the warlock from the bingo hall scaring a group of youngsters outside our door. He was snarling and growling and making a horrible racket. Kids screamed. I finally got close enough to mutter, "What on earth are you doing?"

"I'm just having a bit of Halloween fun," he growled back. "Stand back. I'm about to do my big number."

He suddenly leapt into the air, making a weird twist then fell to the ground and started kicking his feet in the air and howling like a banshee. Kids fled to their parents, except for one little boy who stood crying.

Just then I was struck with inspiration. I raced into the center, collected a handful of candy bars then ran out and dropped them in the crying boy's bucket. "Happy Halloween!" I said happily. "And don't fret another second about that silly warlock, he was just having a candy tantrum!" and the boy flashed me a huge smile. I think next Halloween we should stick with witches and turn all the warlocks into clowns.

Gaming News

Number of Gamblers Decline

Polling company Gallup conducted interviews with 4,450 Americans 18 and older in the first half of June and found that the number of people who've gambled in the last year dropped nearly 20% over the past 10 years. In 2016, 64% of respondents had gambled compared to 45% in this poll. All but one gambling type declined, with lottery participants dropping from 49% in 2016 to 31% this year, betting on pro sports down from 10% to 7%, and betting on college sports down from 5% to 4%. The one category that increased was iGaming, up to 4% from 3% in 2016. Poll participants were queried about fantasy sports and prediction markets, but Gallup couldn't draw comparisons; neither had any data from the 2016 poll. We say, less people might be gambling, but casino revenue is still growing and 2026 will be another record year for gross gaming revenue.

Unregulated Online Gambling

According to a report from the Campaign for Fairer Gambling, unregulated online gambling, both sports books and casinos, generated just under $100 billion in 2025; the $97.4 billion was an increase of 45% over 2024, when it was $67.1 billion. Unregulated iGaming and sports betting accounted for 77% of the total gross gaming revenue last year. The report pegged regulated online-gambling revenue for 2025 at $28.3 billion, up 23% from 2024's $23 billion. So the total take was $125 billion, a 40% increase year over year. Obviously, even the rapid expansion of regulated online gambling in the U.S. hasn't cut into the size of the unregulated market.

Huge Video Keno Jackpot

The big video keno jackpot at PTs has been hit. As you can see, every number on the top line, 1 through 10, was hit, paying a 10-for-10 jackpot for just under $306,000 on a $1 bet. It looks good, but this was far from a positive play for players, as was explained in LVA. This happened over the weekend at the PT's Gold bar at Huntington Cove Pkwy. and Fort Apache. And thanks to LVA correspondent videopkplayer for sending in the story and photo.

WSOP Main Event Winner

Lucas Jumalon, the 22-year-old poker player from Spokane, took first place in the World Series of Poker championship last night, winning the $10 million grand prize and earning a champion bracelet. He entered the final table with the most chips by far and was the favorite to win by far. Jumalon took the chip lead with 13 players remaining and remained in the lead throughout. Second place and $6 million went to Lauri Saaskilahti from Finland after a mere 17 hands heads up. Jumalon told ESPN that when he won the final hand and ran over to his family and friends, "I blacked out. I don't have much recollection of that." Jumalon is the second youngest player ever to win the championship; Joe Cada won it in 2009 when he was 21.

Billion Dollar Powerball Jackpot

Someone in southwestern Illinois is suddenly very very rich, after hitting the Powerball jackpot for $1.04 billion in last night's drawing. The winning ticket was sold by a Hy-Vee gas station in Quincy, Illinois, roughly 140 miles north of St. Louis. It was the eighth largest jackpot in Powerball history and the eighth for more than a bil. The cash value before taxes is an estimated $450 million. Back to $20 million goes the progressive.

Lucky Lotto News

Lucky Seven

A man in North Carolina won $1 million after buying a scratch-off ticket featuring his lucky number. Tomas Munoz became the first person to claim the top prize in the Triple Red 777 Jackpot game after buying a $10 scratch-off ticket because of his personal connection to the number seven, said the North Carolina (NC) Education Lottery in a press release. "Seven is my number," Munoz told the organization. "I was born on the 7th in '77." Munoz said he bought the scratch-off ticket at Candor V Mart on South Main Street in Candor and immediately scratched it in the store. Quickly realizing what he had won, his reaction was indescribable. "I felt emotions all over my body," Munoz said. The game requires players to match any of their numbers to any of the "winning numbers" to win the prize shown for that number. It also offers the opportunity to win double or 10 times the prizes shown, according to the NC Education Lottery. Munoz claimed his prize on July 27, just days after the scratch-off game was released on July 3. The game winner had the choice of receiving his prize as an annuity of $50,000 over 20 years or a lump sum of $600,000. Munoz opted to receive the lump sum of $600,000 and, after required tax withholdings, took home $396,060, according to the press release. He plans to invest the money and continue his work restoring classic cars.

SGarbage Workers to the Rescue

A team of garbage workers helped a woman recover a lottery ticket after she threw it away, not realizing she'd won a prize worth over $1 million. After a self-service lottery terminal displayed a message telling the woman, who chose to remain anonymous, that her ticket was "not payable," she threw it away in a store near Bari in Italy's Puglia region, according to Italian news agency ANSA. However, Roberto Nicola Toscano, the director of SANB, a local waste management company, told the outlet that the player soon realized she had made a big mistake thanks to a family member. By the time she went back to the shop where she had thrown away the €1 million (approximately $1.16 million) winning ticket, the trash had already been collected. "And so, the recovery operation began," Toscano told ANSA. "We reconstructed the journey of the ticket, without much hope of finding it, as it had already been picked up by a garbage truck." Then, once they did find the truck, they ran into another issue. "It couldn't be emptied at our facility due to the risk of waste contamination," the official explained. All in all, Toscano and his team sifted through more than six tons of waste. "Among them was the stub we were looking for, which was miraculously still in one piece," Toscano said, adding that the winner "cried with emotion" when she heard the exciting news. He also joked that he "touched the lucky ticket in the hope that it might bring us some luck too," according to Euro News. With that luck, Toscano and his team decided to buy a scratch card while grabbing a coffee after their victory. To their surprise, they ended up winning €50 (approximately $58). As for the lottery winner? Once she covered "all of the additional costs" that came with the public agency's search, she was left to enjoy her lucky winnings with a crazy story to tell. "This story is nothing short of miraculous," Toscano said, according to the BBC.

Bingo John

Medieval Bingo

(Last month, we left Bingo John in the clutches of Sarah-Mae, but it was something else. She had solid blue eyes and grabbed Bingo John by the ankles then dragged him into her arms. He tried to get away but fainted as he fell into her embrace. When he woke up, he tore out of the Bingo hall and out into the desert.)

I knew I had to get out of there. There were hundreds of them staring down at me with their blue eyes. The thing imitating Sarah-Mae was there to. She wanted something more. Something I was not going to give.

Now I am out in the desert. The sand stretched as far as I could see. Clouds of sand followed across the horizon like ghost ships floating on a dry seabed. Even with the pain in my ankles, I started across the barren landscape. I felt lucky to get away. My life was adrift again. Each of the cells in my body drifted, mindless, towards the dark horizon. My head hung low with exhaustion. Then out across the horizon, a row of mountains appeared in the distance. They were blue at first. Then grey and misty as they got closer. I knew there would be water there. And water was something I desperately needed.

By that afternoon, my tongue swelled to the roof of my mouth. I could no longer swallow. And I could taste the copper bitterness of blood from my split lip. This seemed to go on for days, but I made it to the base of the mountains. They rose up in a solid cliff from the sand. I stood stunned when I got closer. The tall crags blotted out the sky as far as I could see. Black ravens hovered around the tops. They swirled like painted crosses in the clear blue sky. My eyes scanned the peaks, when right in front of me, I saw a Bingo hall. It was perched on top of a craggy precipice. I started up the cliff, because I knew I had to get there. When I got closer, I saw that the birds had red piercing eyes. They all seemed to peer at me as they circled above.

The Bingo hall was an old castle, painted white, with streaming flags all around the top. A neon BINGO sign was over the front door. I figured the whole thing was another trap, like all the other Bingo halls on my journey. But it was either here or back to the desert. So, I decided to go in and see what they were playing.

As I opened the thick wooden door it seemed like a regular old Bingo hall except everything was medieval. There were knights in armor all around the outside edges. The staff wore lederhosen and served tankards of beer to the rowdy crowd. Everything was big and hand carved. I felt like I walked onto the set of a Robin Hood movie. Once they noticed me, I was handed a tankard, and the crowd erupted into a rowdy cheer.

I was the only one there not dressed in flowing clothes. I went in and took a spot next to an old, wrinkled lady with flowing golden hair. She hunched over her cards and scraped pieces of baked pretzel into her toothless mouth.

She put some cards in front of me then said, "It is so nice of you to join us."

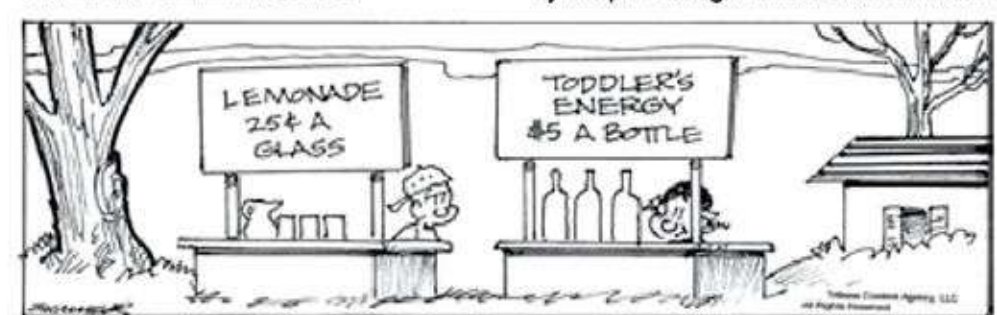

I took a swig of beer when she spoke. Then choked, beer spilling out on the table.

"It is all right," she said, stroking my back. I figured it was best to play along. After a few more swigs, I started feeling very relaxed. I stared dreamily at the golden-haired lady when the trumpets started. Everyone got situated around their cards. Then this old man came out on a podium and said, "Let the game begin."

He wore a big flowing white beard. His face was covered with millions of wrinkles like a crumpled road map. Once the game got started, I realized it was not an ordinary Bingo game. Instead of regular Bingo numbers, the caller announced days of the year. They were playing a coverall game, and the object of the game was to daub out all 365 days of the year.

THE MIDDLETONS

By Ralph Dunagin and Dana Summers

Prepare 24-Hour Refrigerator Pickles

On a recent afternoon when my son texted me to check in, I nimbly replied with sticky fingers. "I'm preoccupied with taking pics of pints of pickled..." While laughing at the preponderance of P's, I accidentally pressed send. He immediately wrote back, "Pickled peppers?... Ha!" Hum, OK, so I may have left the peppers out of this recipe, but keeping with the "Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled..." verse that took us back to his childhood, I simply replied, "Perhaps."

Word play and food play are interchangeable with kids, no matter their age. Preparing pickled veggies this time of year is the perfect antidote for using and enjoying the abundance of fresh, tender and tasty produce in our gardens and markets. You and your kids can create full jars to stack in the refrigerator in less than an hour for a month of tasty sides.

Discover (like my family) that the vegetables will be sweet like bread and butter pickles but pack more flavor than the traditional grocery-store fare. Here's how to "pickle it" all:

24-HOUR PICKLES Makes 6 pints

For the brine:

5 cups distilled white vinegar
5 cups sugar
2 tablespoons kosher salt
1/4 cup mustard seed
1 tablespoon celery seed
1 tablespoon black peppercorns
6 bay leaves
Fresh dill (optional)

For the vegetables:

3 cucumbers, sliced in discs or quartered lengthwise
6 medium carrots, peeled and quartered lengthwise
2 big handfuls of green beans
1 medium cauliflower, broken into pieces
2 onions, halved and sliced

In a saucepan, combine the first six brine ingredients and bring to a boil, stirring until sugar is completely dissolved.

Place the vegetables in a large bowl. An adult should pour the hot brine mixture over the vegetables. Cool. Transfer equally to six clean jars, tucking a bay leaf and dill (if you choose) in each one. Screw lids on tightly and place in the refrigerator.

Refrigerate for 24 hours before serving. Keep refrigerated and use within one month.

I kept silent, because I didn't want to draw any attention to myself. But as the game went on, I noticed a strange change coming over the crowd. They were getting younger and younger. Pretty soon, I was sitting next to a bunch of teenagers. They were all giggly and fresh eyed when they looked at me. Then they were little kids, barely able to see over the top of the table. I briefly looked at my cards. I was going to win. By the time the last number was called and I yelled, "Bingo!" the whole room was nothing but little babies squirming about.

They were the most beautiful babies. They glowed from the inside. My heart sang every time my eyes met theirs. It was hypnotic. When I finally pulled my attention away, I realized there were hundreds of them staring at me. I did not feel in danger. But I knew to focus on my cards. I was the winner. I waited for something, anything to break the tension. Suddenly, the caller yelled out, "Happy Summer!"

Next month, Bingo John leaves the babies in the Bingo Castle and treks across the desert.

Happy Halloween

Weather It Better

Having the right outdoor power equipment on hand can help you weather storms better, says the Outdoor Power Equipment Institute (OPEI).

To get ready for inclement weather, homeowners should assess their property in advance, identify what equipment is needed, and focus on limiting potential storm damage.

Depending on type and size of your landscape, there is equipment for every need including:

— Chainsaws and pole saws that can trim dead or dying limbs and cut shrubs away from windows and doors ahead of damaging storm winds.

— String trimmers and pruners that remove combustible material from around your home.

— A portable generator to power key appliances and charge cell phones or home medical equipment during power outages. Important note: Before an outage, plan where the generator will be set up. NEVER place a generator in a home, garage, carport, or near an open window or door. Use outdoor-rated extension cords long enough to carry power into your home from a safe distance and rated to handle the power drawn.

— Water pumps get water and muck out of basements and homes. Never pump substances that your equipment is not designed to cope with. Pay attention to avoid overheating and follow all safety precautions.

— Utility type vehicle transports people and supplies quickly in an emergency. Remember to keep the vehicle stable, drive slowly, and do not turn mid-slope or while on a hill.

OPEI also advises equipment users to pay attention to energy levels and health. Storm preparation and cleanup can be taxing. Do not operate power equipment when tired or overly fatigued, and always use safety equipment like chaps, gloves, eye protection or hearing protection.

The Chicken Recipe You'll Use Every Week

One batch of juicy "Every Week Chicken" today means faster, easier dinners all week long.

"What is there to eat?" That question plays on repeat in households everywhere.

Today I'm sharing one of the handiest short cuts to give you a great answer when the inevitable question is asked. Now you can say, "There's chicken in the fridge, go make yourself something!"

I call this recipe "Every Week Chicken" because I make this chicken nearly every week for my family. And once you try this, you might do the same. Chicken breast can be troublesome because they're so lean, it's easy to overcook. You'll find this recipe produces tender, juicy chicken every time.

This is a simple recipe for oven-roasted chicken breasts. It's perfect for an easy dinner or to make in advance for meal prep all week long. Moist and flavorful, this is the chicken you want waiting in the fridge to expedite your dinner, stick in a salad, slam on a sandwich, toss in a pasta, put on a pizza. You get the idea.

This simple salt and pepper seasoning gives the chicken tons of flavor yet keeps it neutral enough to play well with other flavor profiles. As always, feel free to adjust to your personal preferences.

Fun Fact

The Mariana Trench in the Pacific Ocean is over 1,500 miles long and almost 7 miles deep. Mankind has explored further and much more often into outer space than we have ever yet ventured into the Trench's very cold, very dark depths. Mount Everest would fit very comfortably down in it, and still have water above it.

EVERY WEEK CHICKEN

- 4 pounds boneless skinless chicken breast (about 6 breasts)
- 2 teaspoons kosher salt
- 1 teaspoon fresh ground pepper
- Olive oil or your choice of cooking spray

Preheat oven to 375 F degrees. For easy clean up, line a baking sheet with parchment or foil. Brush the chicken with olive oil or give it a quick spray of cooking spray. Mix the salt and pepper in a small bowl and season both sides of the chicken breasts with the mixture, then put them on the prepared baking sheet, uncovered. Place them in oven and bake for 30 minutes. Remove the chicken when it reaches 160 F. Carryover heat will bring it to a safe final temperature while it rests. Remove the chicken and rest, covered with foil, for 15 minutes.

This cooking time works on chicken breasts of nearly all sizes, 3/4 inch to 1 1/2 inches thick. If your chicken breast is thinner than 3/4 inch thick, reduce cooking time to 25 minutes.

To store, place in a storage container with the accumulated pan juices over the chicken for flavor and to keep the chicken moist. Store in the fridge for up to five days.

So, what do you do with all that chicken? Well, besides chicken salad, sandwiches and wraps, here are three fabulous ideas:

BBQ Chicken French Bread Pizza: Split a loaf of French bread lengthwise and spread with barbecue sauce. Top with shredded mozzarella, cooked shredded chicken and chopped red onion. Bake at 400 degrees until the bread is crisp and the cheese is melted and bubbly, about 15 minutes. Finish with a drizzle of additional barbecue sauce and a sprinkle of chopped cilantro before slicing and serving.

Chicken Avocado Quesadillas: Layer shredded mozzarella, cooked chicken and diced avocado between two flour tortillas. Add a drizzle of your favorite sauce, such as ranch, barbecue or teriyaki, if you'd like. Cook in a skillet over medium heat until both sides are golden brown and the cheese is melted, then slice into wedges and serve.

Quick Chicken Alfredo: Make sliced leftover chicken into a fast comfort meal by simmering it with jarred Alfredo sauce, a splash of milk, butter and Italian seasonings. Spoon over cooked egg noodles and finish with chopped parsley.

Sometimes the simplest recipes become the ones you reach for again and again. I have a feeling this will be one of them. Enjoy!

The Minnesota Department of Natural Resources (DNR) brought back its popular exhibits and activities to the Minnesota State Fair this year, offering fairgoers a chance to connect with nature through hands-on experiences. DNR staff gave daily talks about the three dozen species of native fish featured in their outdoor pond. People also learned about wildfire prevention at the Wildlife Prevention Building, and a 65-foot Fire Tower. Interactive exhibits featured information about native bird species in Minnesota and their songs. Photo ops included giant butterfly wings, a hiking boot, nature backdrops and Smokey Bear. New this year, families joined Woodsy Owl for Children's Outdoor Bill of Rights Bingo. The Children's Outdoor Bill of Rights is an initiative of Gov. Tim Walz and the Governor's Children's Cabinet to connect all Minnesota kids to the outdoors.

Florida Gaming Raid

Sixty illegal slot machines were seized from Uptown Bingo in Cape Coral following a raid by the Florida Gaming Control Commission and the Cape Coral Police Department in late July. Florida law prohibits instant bingo on electronic devices that display games of chance, including slot machines. FGCC said the raid serves as a reminder that not all bingo is legal. "Bingo is fun, and the FGCC supports lawful play," said FGCC Commissioner Peter Cudemman. "Unfortunately, some criminals prey on Floridians by using a bingo theme on slot machines and falsely claim these games are legal."

Trio Saves a Bingo Player

When Bruce Bredbenner woke up from the cardiac arrest that nearly killed him, his doctors told him that he owed his life to a decision to play bingo. Instead of eating dinner at home, Bredbenner, 74, and his wife, Bev, 72, stopped in to play bingo at the Good Will Hose Company in Cressona, PA in August. During the second game, Bredbenner's heart stopped. A nurse, a veteran firefighter, and an 18-year-old high school senior with fresh EMT training stepped in within 30 seconds to perform CPR and use an automated external defibrillator (AED) until Schuylkill EMS arrived. Bredbenner, a resident of Hamburg who has congestive heart failure, was expected to return home with no cognitive issues. "If we would have gone home that night instead of to bingo, he'd be dead now," Bev said. "That's for sure." From his hospital bed, Bredbenner thanked those who helped him. And Bev also shared how grateful the family is, including the couple's three daughters and four grandchildren.

VP Strategy Cards

When I walk through the aisles of a casino, I'm amazed to find so few players using a strategy card when they play video poker. Why anyone would choose not to have the answers right in front of them when they're risking their hard-earned money is beyond me. I teach video poker, yet you will never see me playing without a strategy card—all smart video poker players use them! There are several good strategy cards for video poker that are marketed by various companies. The ones I particularly like are the strategy cards developed by Bob Dancer and Liam Daily (available at bobdancer.com).

There are many different kinds of video poker machines on a casino floor. They include the classic jacks-or-better, bonus poker games, deuces wild, joker wild and many more. Most video poker machines now have a menu of different games that you can choose to play. The issue is that the paycheck for winning hands for a specific game is not always the same from one machine to another in the same casino and also from one casino to another. Smart video poker players know the location of video poker machines that offer what is known as "full pay" games or those games that have the highest overall return in a casino and play them over lower paying games. Video poker strategy cards can help you locate these full pay machines. Here's how.

Let's suppose you want to play jacks-or-better video poker. On the Dancer/Daily Jacks-or-Better strategy card you will find four different common pay tables and the corresponding return percentage. The best or "full pay" pay table returns 99.54% while the least desirable pay table returns only 97.3%. Armed with your strategy card you can walk into any casino and scout around checking the pay tables you see on the video poker machine to the pay tables on the strategy card. This will help you locate the highest paying jacks-or-better machine in the casino. It's easy when you have your strategy card with you.

Once you are ready to play, you need to know how to play your hands. That's where the strategy card comes in real handy. The Dancer cards have four levels of strategy imprinted on them, from beginner to recreational, to basic to advanced. As the strategy level increases the complexity of the playing strategy also increases. I would strongly encourage a beginner to begin with the Level 1 Beginner strategy and once you master and feel comfortable using that strategy proceed to the next level. For most casual players, playing at Level 2 or 3 is quite sufficient. Let's give an example of how the strategy card can help you make the right playing decision. Suppose you were dealt the following hand:

Q (c), Q (d), 9 (d), 5 (d), 2 (d)

Look closely at the hand. You are dealt a pair of queens, but you also have four cards to a flush (diamonds). The question is which is the better play—hold the pair of queens and draw three new cards or hold the four diamonds, and draw one card hoping to get a paying five card flush?

The strategy card gives you the answer in a second. The card lists the hands with the greatest to lowest expected value (or profitability). You simply find the pair of queens (listed as a HIGH PAIR) and the 4-card flush on the strategy card and the hand highest up in the table of hand rankings is the preferred play. In this example it's more profitable to hold the high pair over the 4-card flush. Within seconds you will be making the right play with the strategy card at your fingertips.

Video poker offers average players an opportunity to play a casino game where it's possible to get very high returns (close to, and sometimes slightly over, 100%). But you have to be able to choose your machine wisely and play accurately. By having a handy pocket strategy card with you at all times when you play it will help you easily achieve both objectives.

The American Red Cross Declares National Blood Emergency

Latino blood donors can help make a lifesaving difference

The American Red Cross has declared a national blood emergency and is urging all eligible individuals to give blood to help ensure patients receive the transfusions and care they need.

This decline in the blood supply and in donation appointments comes at a time when maintaining a stable blood inventory is especially difficult. During the summer months, schools and colleges are on break, resulting in fewer blood drives that typically help support the blood supply.

More people are traveling and spending time outdoors, increasing the likelihood of accidents and traumatic injuries. According to AAA, fatal crashes involving teen drivers increase by 30% during the so-called "100 Deadliest Days," which run from Memorial Day through Labor Day. This trend disproportionately affects communities such as the Latino community, which has a larger youth population.

A trauma patient can require as many as 100 units of blood, and it is the blood already on hospital shelves and ready for use that can make all the difference in a life-threatening situation.

Unlike other medical treatments, blood cannot be manufactured or stockpiled indefinitely. It must be continually replenished because it remains available for transfusion for only a limited period of time—just a few weeks for red blood cells and only a few days for platelets.

A well-maintained blood supply is essential for treating and saving the lives of people facing emergencies, mothers experiencing severe bleeding during childbirth, and patients with cancer who depend on transfusions.

This blood shortage is especially critical for patients who need B-negative and O-positive blood. "This is where the Latino community can make a lifesaving difference," said Dr. Maribel Garcia, regional medical director for the American Red Cross. "Nearly 60% of Latinos have Type O blood, one of the most needed blood types and one that is frequently used in emergencies."

The Red Cross is grateful to Latino blood donors, whose participation increased by 7% last year, and encourages them to continue supporting the blood supply and helping patients across all communities through their blood donations.

The most important way to help during this blood emergency is to make an appointment to give blood today by using the Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting RedCrossBlood.org, or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767).

Luck in Poker is a Matter of Perspective

By Chad Holloway

I recently had the opportunity to compete in the Major Series of Poker: The Tour, otherwise known as the MSPT, in their Season 16 Iowa Poker State Championship, an $1,110 buy-in no-limit hold'em poker tournament that attracted 815 entrants and awarded a $789,494 prize pool.

I ended up finishing the tournament in third place for $69,610, and along the way I experienced my fair share of good and bad luck, albeit much more of the former than the latter.

In one hand early on Day 2, which saw me bring in the second-biggest stack among the 91 returning players, it was Level 16 (4,000/8,000/8,000) when Kanat Ozturk opened for 20,000 in middle position and I looked down at the AhAs in the cutoff. There were some short stacks among the players behind me, so I opted to slow play by just calling in the hope one of them would move all in. Even if they didn't, my hand would be well-disguised.

Unfortunately, the button and both blinds folded and it was heads-up to a flop of 2c4hAc. Ozturk continued for 15,000 and knowing he wouldn't have raised preflop with 3x5x—which would give him a straight—I knew I had the best hand. I would usually just call, but with two clubs on the flop I didn't want him to draw to a flush cheaply if he had

by C.L. Morrissey

Once, Desi Delgado was exactly the kind of criminal society feared: violent, impulsive and consumed by addiction. Eight years in prison changed the course of his life, but not the weight of his past. Now a successful businessman and co-founder of a halfway house, Desi is determined to keep others from repeating his mistakes. When a violent crime strikes close to home, he creates Redemption Initiative, a covert program that uses immersive technology to force offenders to confront the full reality of the harm they've caused.

But can accountability be engineered? Can the process unlock the innate ability to be reformed? Can true remorse be measured and verified? In Redemption Initiative: The Good Samaritan, C.L. Morrissey blends crime fiction with provocative moral questions, exploring the uneasy space where punishment ends, redemption begins, and justice itself is reimagined.

two clubs in the hole.

As such, I clicked it back with a min-raise to 30,000. He called, the Kd appeared on the turn, and Ozturk checked. I bet 35,000 and he didn't take too long to call, which made me feel he either had the flush draw or possibly pocket kings, in which case he just turned a set.

When the 7h completed the board on the river, I no longer had to worry about a flush, and then when Ozturk led out for $5,000, I was pretty sure he actually had pocket kings. I moved all in and Ozturk snap-called off his remaining 150,000 with the KsKc or so only to discover I had slow played aces.

"I thought I was trapping you," he said before exiting the tournament in 70th place.

I was lucky to be on the right end of that cooler, which allowed me to make a deep run in the tournament. I was also lucky to go from the short stack at the final table down to the final three players, ladder up tens of thousands of dollars in the process. Unfortunately for me, that is where my luck ran out.

In my final hand, the blinds were a hefty 200,000/300,000/300,000 and I moved all in for 4.4 million holding the AcJc in the small blind. Jake Long called from the big with the Ah3h. I was a 3-to-1 favorite, and the 4s7d7h flop seemed safe enough. Unfortunately, me, the 2h turn and Kh river gave Long a runner-runner flush to end my run.

I wish I'd won that hand, which would've given me a good shot to win the whole thing, but I wasn't too disappointed. Sure, I got unlucky in that hand, but I got lucky to even get there in the first place. In poker, it's important to keep such things in perspective.

A Family Affair

Dear Aunt Bingo,

Sometimes I wonder why Bingo isn't more of a family event for more people.

My mom, my brothers and I go together all the time, and now two of my nieces have joined in. We use the time to catch up on personal stuff—and yes, we have been shushed more than once for being too chatty—and it has struck me that there is something about being out and about on neutral ground instead of at home that makes everybody feel they are on equal ground and relaxed about sharing news and joking around like we might not do otherwise.

If I had my way, I think I would play Bingo with my family every week if I could. But we're all pretty busy, so once a month is about the best we can do—except for my mom and me, who play together more often.

Anyway, I'm just passing this along as an idea for other Bingo players who may want to try and turn their Bingo playing into a family affair.

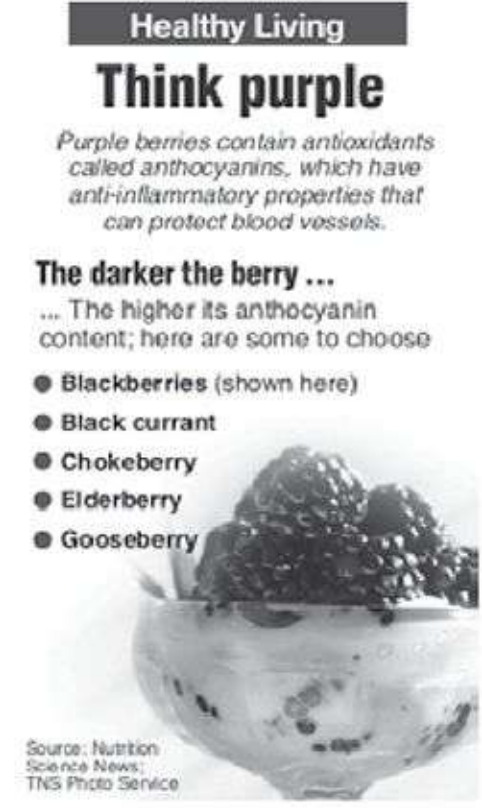

—RMC, Washington, via email

Dear RMC, Wow, it's wonderful to hear that you are part of three generations of one family that has found Bingo to be an activity you all enjoy sharing. I don't know how you do it. I've tried fifty ways to get family to go with me to Bingo, but I rarely succeed. It may require that your family members already have a fondness for the game and just need someone like you to say, "OK, let's make this happen!"

Either way, let's hope your letter pushes a few others to make Bingo time family time as well. And if anyone else out there plays bingo family style let us know!

—Aunt Bingo

A: I'm so sorry to hear that Grimsby hasn't yet been found. Thank you for your story, which illustrates why indoor cats need to wear ID at all times and why microchipping is recommended.

According to a 2012 study, about half to three-quarters of lost cats are eventually found. Lost dogs are found and returned at a much higher rate of 71% to 97%.

What should you do if your cat or dog escapes?

— Act fast. Pets are recovered most often within the first week of disappearing, but only if the owners start searching immediately.

— Put up signs and notices. Social media posts and paper signs are still effective according to all studies of lost pet recovery.

— Engage your neighbors. Knock on doors, make phone calls and let everyone in the vicinity know that your pet has gone missing.

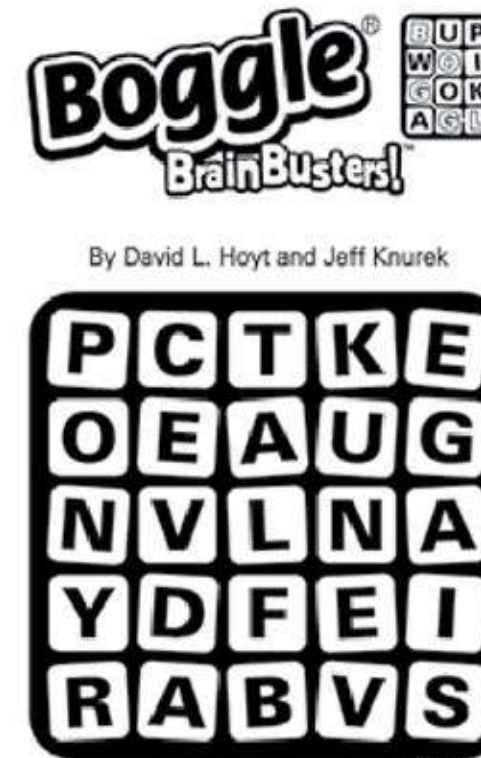

— Contact local shelters and rescues. Surprisingly, shelters have a low return-to-owner rate — unless a pet is microchipped.

Send your tips, comments or questions to ask@pawscorner.com.

Q: My cat "Grimsby" got out of my apartment through a hole in the patio screen last summer. I put flyers all over the neighborhood and posted on social media, but he never returned and was never found. I did not microchip Grimsby, and he didn't have a collar on when he escaped — since he was a completely indoor cat, I assumed he didn't need any of that. Please warn your readers that even indoor cats can escape and get lost. — Ciara J. in Lakeland, Florida

When Medical Bills Pile Up

Dear Savvy Senior,

I'm 63 and recently had a hospital stay that left me with bills I can't afford to pay. I had Affordable Care Act health insurance, but after my premiums went up in January, I had to drop my coverage. Now I'm overwhelmed by medical bills. What can I do?

—Struggling Patient

Dear Struggling,

You're definitely not alone. Medical debt is very common. About 1 in 12 Americans are dealing with it, and many had insurance when the bills started piling up. The good news is there are ways to reduce what you owe and make it more manageable. Here are some steps that can help.

Check your bills: Medical billing errors are more common than you might think, so start by taking a close look at every bill and explanation of benefits you receive. Watch for duplicate charges, services you did not receive or prices that seem off. If something does not look right, call your provider's billing office and ask for an itemized bill. Do not be shy about asking questions. Even small mistakes can add up.

Ask about help: Most hospitals, especially nonprofit ones, are required to offer financial assistance programs, often called charity care. Depending on your income, you may qualify to have part or even all of your bill forgiven. Call the hospital billing office and ask specifically about financial assistance. You can also visit DollarFor.org, a nonprofit that helps patients apply for charity care programs at no cost.

Negotiate costs: If you don't qualify for assistance, you still have options. Many hospitals and doctors are willing to work with patients, especially if you reach out early. Ask if they can lower the bill or offer a discount if you can pay something upfront. You can also request a no interest payment plan to spread the cost out over time. If this feels overwhelming, a medical billing advocate can help. The Alliance of Professional Health Advocates can connect you with professionals who review bills and negotiate on your behalf.

Find programs: Since you recently lost coverage, it is also worth checking whether you qualify for Medicaid, especially if your income has dropped. You can apply through Healthcare.gov or your state Medicaid office. Another helpful tool is BenefitsCheckUp.org, from the National Council on Aging, which can point you to programs that help lower health care and prescription costs.

Get support: You do not have to handle this on your own. There are several trusted organizations that offer free or low-cost help. The Patient Advocate Foundation provides case management services and can help you find financial assistance. The National Foundation for Credit Counseling offers counseling and guidance on managing debt. You can also visit NeedyMeds.org to locate programs that can help lower the cost of prescriptions and other medical expenses. The most important thing is to act sooner rather than later. Ignoring medical bills can lead to collections and added stress, but many providers are willing to work with you if you reach out.

Start by reviewing your bills, then explore assistance programs and payment options. With some persistence, you can often lower what you owe and set up a plan that fits your budget. Medical debt is common, even among people who had insurance, but it is often negotiable, and there are real resources available to help you through it.

Luck or Hexes?

It's Autumn and the local robins are staggering around my lawn like they just closed down a fun club at 4:00am. — Ms. Know It All Love it, hate it? I love autumn with the smell of burning leaves, warm days, chilly nights, and hot chocolate with Baileys. At the same time, I hate trick or treating, Halloween pranks, and pumpkin spice in everything in the whole freaking world. You can tell, I'm not a pumpkin spice fan so call me an October curmudgeon and I won't be offended. However, there are some interesting Autumn events that are worth sharing.

Every year at this time, a drunken bird epidemic occurs. The autumn frosts cause leftover berries and fruit to ferment, turning them into pure alcohol. Flocks of birds, like robins, gorge on this tasty food which then turns them into flying drunks. This leads to inebriated birds flying erratically, walking in circles, and losing their fear of humans. Some even need to be placed in cardboard box drunk tanks by wildfire rescuers until they sober up. I've never witnessed this spectacle but must admit it's probably hilarious to watch as long as the birds aren't harmed. Warning to my human readers, do not try this cheap method of imbibing as we are not birds.

Second, along those lines, autumn rainfall triggers massive blooms of wild fungi including the bright red Amanita Muscaria, a toxic mushroom. Caribou, deer, and squirrels actively seek out these mushrooms specifically to consume them. As a result, they are found stumbling through the woods; acting disoriented and running in erratic loops; displaying temporary alternate states of consciousness from their fungal snacks. In other words, they're tripping and not in the stumble bumble manner of an accidental fall. Again, dear readers, we are humans, not animals, and these mushrooms are TOXIC, which means they can cause death. Because our forest friends can do this does not mean humans can. Don't even consider it.

That brings us to October bingo where Autumn and Halloween together produce a unique blend of rules for attracting good fortune and avoiding cold streaks. One good luck hint is to use orange and black daubers this month as this appeases the spirits of the bingo hall and will trigger a hot streak. Also, carry a dried autumn leaf in your bingo bag to guarantee a jackpot before winter. However, it must be harvested on the day of the first seasonal frost, so get your butts out there if it's not too late in the month. As for astrology, it says October is a high intensity energy month and numbers ending in 4 and 8 are the luckiest bingo card numbers. On the other hand, to avoid bad luck this month, do not change seats as this disturbs the residual luck left behind by players earlier in the autumn cycle. Avoid cards with the number 13 as its bad juju is doubled in October. And under no circumstances wish another player good luck before the first ball drops. Saying good luck aloud will hex the recipient's cards. But then, heeheehee, that's one way of eliminating competition or of hexing someone you dislike. Would I ever intentionally do that? Don't ask, don't tell. Until next month, may Lady Luck blow you kisses as you dance out the door with dollars. Email me any pics you have of drunken birds; not of the humankind, please, at nlpzw6172@gmail.com

DEAR DR. ROACH: I've noticed that when I wipe the cap of my glass water bottle, there's a dark gray or black material inside the cap after I've refilled it. Is this mold? Should I stop refilling the water bottle? — D.D.

ANSWER: The cap of your glass water bottle is made from aluminum. When you open and close the cap, the aluminum metal is exposed to air, where it reacts with oxygen to form aluminum oxide. This is the black material that you're wiping off the cap. Aluminum oxide is inert and passes through the body, so you don't need to worry about it.

Dr. Roach regrets that he is unable to answer letters, but will incorporate them in the column whenever possible. Readers may email questions to ToYourGoodHealth@med.cornell.edu.

Antiques & Collecting

By Terry and Kim Kovel

Q: I am curious about an old children's pedal bike shaped like the Road Runner from Looney Times. It has three wheels and is marked "Hedstrom Corp., Bedford, PA." What can you tell me about it, and what is it worth?

A: The Hedstrom Corp. was founded in Ashland, Ohio, in 1914 to make balloons. They expanded into plastic toys, making balls by 1923 and riding toys by 1936. Their Bedford, Pennsylvania, plant opened in 1966 and closed in 2004. It made blow-molded toys. Hedstrom is still operating today in Ashland as a division of Ball, Bounce & Sport, Inc., making children's plastic and inflatable toys with licensed characters. There was a Hedstrom bicycle company in Massachusetts that was apparently not related. We have not found a specific date of manufacture for your Road Runner tricycle, but it is very rare and desirable to collectors of Looney Times toys. One sold online for $400 some years ago.

Horoscopes for October 2026

ARIES (MAR 21-APR 20): How to feel free while meeting obligations that seem to be dampening your spirits? You need to reframe your commitment as a choice. The words we use to define our world have the power to trap us or free us. Change up the wording you use—you'll be surprised with the results.

Lucky Days: 16 - 26

Lucky Numbers: 3 - 19

TAURUS (APR 21-MAY 21): Agitation within your relationships can disrupt you mentally and physically. Ask yourself if you are relying too much on other people to give you a sense of security and well-being. October is about finding your own footing, regardless of those around you.

Lucky Days: 7 - 11

Lucky Numbers: 54 - 56

GEMINI (MAY 22-JUN 21): As winter approaches, you're ready to meet new parts of yourself that will startle you. Suddenly you're interested in deeper learning and getting to the bottom of things. Skimming the surface won't work now. You've got to do some digging to find the gold.

Lucky Days: 15 - 17

Lucky Numbers: 9 - 33

CANCER (JUN 22-JUL 22): Develop ways to sustain a peaceful and healing environment at home. Work might be demanding more and more from you, but don't skimp on making your home an oasis of calm. More than any other sign, you rely on your domain to keep you centered and sane.

Lucky Days: 9 - 19

Lucky Numbers: 44 - 48

LEO (JUL 23-AUG 23): Jupiter, the planet of blessings continues to move through your sign. This provides you with a boost of daring and courage. Use those energies to actively promote yourself. Relationships you develop now have the potential to impact your life in profound ways.

Lucky Days: 4 - 14

Lucky Numbers: 8 - 21

VIRGO (AUG 24-SEP 23): Are your expectations grounded in reality? This month calls for sorting fantasy from fact. Pragmatism like this is usually second nature to you, but your imagination is working overtime now. You need to find the sweet spot between grandiosity and hard work.

Lucky Days: 16 - 26

Lucky Numbers: 55 - 57

LIBRA (SEP 24-OCT 23): The new Moon in your sign has you closing in on a revelation that's been building for you for a couple of years. It's time to show off the skill sets you've honed since early last year. Being shy or reserved isn't in the game plan for the rest of the year. Prepare to sparkle.

Lucky Days: 7 - 23

Lucky Numbers: 3 - 13

SCORPIO (OCT 24-NOV 22): You tend to go slowly and play it safe with most life choices. But this month you're feeling more carefree and ready to gamble. Good, you need that kind of trust in your fate to start building towards one of your life's biggest dreams. As they say, "This is it!"

Lucky Days: 6 - 17

Lucky Numbers: 3 - 35

SAGITTARIUS (NOV 23-DEC 21): Your attention and curiosity is moving through a different part of your nature this month; a place shaped by dreams and visions. What's inspiring you now comes from a liminal, more sacred place. Pay attention, guidance like this is priceless.

Lucky Days: 2 - 22

Lucky Numbers: 1 - 8

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20): You've worked hard this year to remain enthused even when events haven't played out as you'd have wished. Stay the course a little longer—this approach is bound to land you somewhere that rewards you with satisfaction and a deep sense of peace.

Lucky Days: 19 - 20

Lucky Numbers: 4 - 54

AQUARIUS (JAN 21-FEB 19): To advance this month you'll need to challenge whatever rules seem to be holding you back. If you study history, you'll note that the biggest winners in life were folks that advanced by ignoring conventional guidelines. Be bold and get ready to join their ranks.

Lucky Days: 4 - 15

Lucky Numbers: 49 - 53

PISCES (FEB 20-MAR 20): Sometimes the softer side of your nature keeps you trapped in positions that aren't worthy of your skill sets. And yet you dislike being perceived as egotistical or showy. Your mission this month? Learn to separate humility from invisibility.
