NEWS FROM THE REAL WORLD & CYBERSPACE

Bingo is a Secret Casino Jackpot

Casinos in Las Vegas and elsewhere want to find new customers, and an old game that's getting new life-bingo-may hold

The Plaza Hotel and Casino in Downtown Las Vegas is one gambling hall that's reinventing bingo for the selfie generation. The Plaza is an older Las Vegas casino that's been considerably revitalized in recent years. Bingo is a way to reach out to both older and younger audiences. Plaza CEO Jonathan Jossell explains. Jonathan Jossell explains.

"Bingo is a classic game that fits with the Plaza's vintage Vegas theme," Jossell says.
"The traditional customer demographic for bingo is similar to that of downtown Las Vegas and the Plaza. However, in recent years, the game has been attracting a variety of new players, including many millennials, so the Plaza put a renewed emphasis on it. The game itself is very friendly and not too hard to learn. The Plaza, says Jossell, has played off the game's social nature by creating a relaxed, friendly atmosphere, And, in keeping with its appeal to more tech-savvy and younger players, a recent renovation added not only 200 fixed base electronic bingo units but also charging stations and electrical outlets. After all, you can't post a status update if your battery has died, and what fun would the game be if you couldn't share your winning card? Bingo, historically, was a big money-maker for charitable organizations, but it has lost ground to faster, more lucrative forms of gambling. And, although the Plaza and a host of locals' casinos offer bingo, the last casino to offer bingo on the Las Vegas Strip, the Riviera, closed in 2015. The game itself is not a huge money-maker for casinos. In the three-decades plus that the state has been tracking casino bingo numbers, the state's casinos as a whole lost money for ten of those years. That sort of record usually gets a game thrown out-after all, casinos are posed to be the ones making the money has held on-off the Strip, at least. "A bingo room can take un significant space on a property and unlike the casino floor, a bingo room is not in use 24/7." Jossell a dedicated room on our third floor adjacent to our conference space for 6 games daily. Our himonthly Super Bingo tournaments take over our entire 19,000 sq. ft. ballroom.

poker and blackiack advantage players have usually schedule games every two hours, giving some downtime during which other things. Jossell says that bingo players also stay in the hotel, dine in restau play other casino games, making them good overall customers. If you hit the slots while waiting for the next game to start, you'll almost certainly end up a net loser, but it you are patient enough to just relax, maybe ou'll end up ahead or at least the casino won't make too much money off you

Despite the game's slim edge for casinos, the Plaza's bet on bingo has paid off. In addition to the players showing up for its daily games, six times a year the casino hosts three-day Super Bingo tournament events that draw up to 1,000 players, Jossell says that 85 percent of Super Bingo players come from outside Nevada with Texas. mesota, California, Arizona, and Hawaii well represented. So bingo has a double appeal: it's one of the few games that, historically, players have beaten the casino in. It's also a proven seatfiller. The fact that it doesn't have the same inteed profitability as slot machines has made many casinos shy away from it, but its popularity means it will be sticking around for a long time. David G. Many properties may not want to dedicate so much space to a game that is not available around the clock." Bingo can (and historically, often has) been a money-loser for casinos, so does that mean players can win money consistently? Can bineo players succeed where video

The numbers say they can, maybe, but of course there is a catch. This catch makes bingo a secret jackpot for casinos. Casinos customers will probably spend money doing sports betting in September, with retail locations scheduled to open on September 7 and mobile betting launching on September 28. Kentucky will become the 35th state. plus Washington, D.C., where sports betting s legal and live; in three other states (Maine, Vermont, and Florida), sports betting is legal but not yet live. And it looks like Rhode Island will become the seventh state with legal online slots and table games when they go live on April 1. Bally's, which holds a monopoly on casino gambling in its home state with Bally's Twin River Lincoln and Bally's Tiverton, will be the sole igaming operator with third-party partner Stakelogic.

Bullet Train Inches Along

The high-speed train planned to connect Las Vegas and southern California has surmounted an environmental-impact challenge and can now move forward again. The Federal Railroad Administration rtermined that the train would not impact a 50-mile corridor between Victor Valler and its southern terminus in Cucamonaa thus freeing developer Brightline West from conducting a formal environmentalimpact study and producing a statement. The company has now accumulated all the required permits and rights of way and has announced ground-breaking on the line for

I Hate to Report This

Ringolike that I could not believe it and yet, it happened in small-town America, in the old school cafeteria where I first saw my grandmother play Bingo in 1957. Since my return-for health reasons-back to rural America, I have renewed old friendships with a lot of people from my childhood. I can't wait for Friday and Sunday nights when I can go back to the old school and play. But, recently, I saw something that I have never seen before at a Bingo game. It's the kind of thing you would expect to see in a big-city hall or in Vegas or Atlantic City, but it happened in a town of 11,000 in Indiana, And, I still can't believe it. If you remember, some months ago the hall got a brand-new electrical tote board and all new equipment, including the machine that stirs the balls and pushes them up a tube, one at a

The incident I am going to tell you about was the result of a relatively new caller not being fully versed on how the equipment operated. It was near the end of the evening in the final minutes of the COVER-ALL for the big prize of the evening. Up front I could hear a rumble starting. Soon, people were yelling at the caller. It got worse, Suddenly about a dozen people stormed the caller's desk. It looked like a small-scale riot!

Aussie Rugby Goes Big

The Australian National Rugby League (NRL) will open its 2024 season with a double-header at Allegiant Stadium in Las Vegas, Nevada in late February and/or early March 2024. The games are intended to "showcase rugby, the league, and Australia to the U.S. market," as well as to "increase broadcast exposure and wagering turnover," by being on a "stage the sport has never een on before." The four teams will be the Sydney Roosters, South Sydney Rabbitohs, Manly Sea Eagles, and Brisbane Broncos;

the Rabbitohs are co-owned by actor Russell Crowe. The games will be part of an "entertainment blitz" that will include other Aussie sporting events and entertainers. G2F Takes on Smoking

"For many reasons, the gaming industry is miles behind other businesses when it comes to the smoking issue." So writes author John L. Smith (No Limit, Of Rats and Men, Quicksilver, and On the Boulevard) in a commentary posted recently on CDCGamingReports.com. John is enting on the recent announcement that there will be a panel discussion at the upcoming G2E in Las Vegas this month. which is, as he notes, something of an anomaly for the biggest gambling-industry conference and trade show of the year More of the post is available online through

He circulated the room, handing out fun size candy bars to the participants. I am particularly fond of Snickers, although candy do not need. I ate and enjoyed it anyway much to Kate's disgruntlement because she is trying to get slimmer. Halloween is very ard on her, as she really loves candy.

The next day was Trick or Treat Night when all the little kids dress up and collect andy from the merchants. The streets are blocked off so the little are safe from cars and they have a grand time.

I volunteered to help keep the Social Center open for potty breaks and to give out andy. I love seeing all the little kids dressed un. This year we also sold baked notatoes as a fundraiser and they were sure good, what with all the toppings available—and certainly helped offset the effects of all that Toward the end of the evening, there was a disturbance outside our door that concerned me somewhat. When I went to see what it was, I discovered the Warlock from the Bingo Hall scaring a group of youngsters outside our door. He was snarling and growling and in general making a horrible racket. Kids screamed. I finally got close enough to mutter, "What on earth are you "I'm just having a bit of Halloween fun, he growled. "Stand back. I'm about to do my big number.

Then he jumped up, made a kind of twist and came down on one arm, kicking his feet in the air and howling like a banshee. Kids fled to their mothers, except for one little boy who stood crying.

"What's the matter?" I asked. "He's just pretending. It's not real. Don't cry.' He kept on bawling. Then I was struck with inspiration. I went back into the center and collected a double handful of candy bars and took them to him. As I dropped them into his pumpkin carrier, he stopped crying and flashed me a huge smile. "Well," I said. "Happy Halloween and all's well that ends well,"

The Angel of Rome: And Other Stories

by Jess Walter

Reading can be a transcendent experience Constant readers like me are occasionally transported magically into another time place or world by the sheer eloquence and elegant beauty of an author's choice of words and phrasing. It doesn't happen frequently but when it occurs you want to metaphorically shout it from the rooftops or at least tell everyone you know "you must read this!" Jess Walter is one of those rare authors who achieve this distinction. His recent book of short stories The Angel of Rome (Harner Perennial) is now published in paperback. It is a marvelous gem filled with umor, poignancy, heart and wisdom chiefly written in first person narration by relatable. well denicted characters

Each protagonist examines a particular time in their lives grappling with their role and purpose hoping to understand its significance. These 12 stories confidently illustrate and honor the seven ages of man from early childhood to old age, infirmity. and death with erace and integrity All have appeared in various publications but are collected here for the first time. The lengths vary from the few pages of Cross the Woods to the novella length title work The Angel of Rome. Some will make you laugh out loud while others evoke tears as you may recognize personal life experiences fictionally reflected

Dungeons & Dragons: Honor Among Thieves (PG-13) — Chris Pine leads this fantasy-action film based on the role-playing board game Dungeons & Dragons, Pine plays a widower named Edgin, who's also the leader of a band of thieves, including a barbarian (Michelle Rodriguez), a sorcere (Justice Smith) and a con artist (Hugh Grant). Edgin is so desperate to bring his wife back from the dead by stealing a "Tablet of Reawakening" that he's ultimately imprisoned and loses his daughter. After he escapes prison with the help of his barbarian bestie, the pair stop at nothing until they can find the tablet and get Edgin's daughter back. (Amazon Prime Video)

You Are So Not Invited to My Bat Mitzvah (PG-13) - It's a Sandler family affair for this new comedy film! While Adam Sandler's daughters, Sadie and Sunny, have made appearances throughout his many movies. Sunny takes center stage here in preteen girl who does everything with her best friend, Lydia, and they're obsessed with planning their upcoming bat mitzvahs. However, when Lydia accidentally steals the boy Stacy's been crushing on, Stacy reaches her first true test before her rite of passage, as her world feels like it's come crashing down on her, Adam, Jackie and Sadie Sandler also star in this wholesome coming-of-age film, along with Idina Menzel and Saturday Night Live's Sarah Sherman. BS High (NR) — On Aug. 29, 2021, a high school football game between Bishop Sycamore High School and IMG Academy was televised on ESPN that ended with a final score of 58-0. After such a blowout occurred and certain conditions of the game were called into question, an investigation was launched into Bishon Sycamore, where the Ohio Department of Education ruled that the school actually didn't exist! The team operated under the guise of representing a "school" without a real campus, teachers or trainers, incurring thousands of dollars in debt from housing the players in hotels. How Bishop Sycamore had even begun to pull this stunt off gets explored in this documentary film premiering Aug. 23. (Max)

Google for free bingo templates online and print our bingo cards with vocabulary you choose. In evious years at our banquet, I used family related words. Second, use food as markers. M & M's, Cheez-Its, Smarties, popcorr and grapes work well. I told our church ladies they could throw their markers at me if they didn't get to yell bingo but he aware

Caller Puts the Kibosh on Bingo Novelty

Dear Aunt Bingo, I would like your opinion on this matter

Recently I went to Bingo and I was very appy to finally win. It was no big amount but still "a win." But my bubble was burst by being humiliated by the caller

My brother had given me a Bingo calling device he hoped would bring me luck. You just press a button and it says "Bingo, Bingo' in a male voice. There have been times when I could not hear people call out "Bingo" and device is not loud but able to be heard. I believe these novelties are made to be used and are not hurting anyone. I have used this in other halls, and everyone thinks it is a neat

However, the caller from this hall that I have been to many times announced to everyone that if I should win again, that I would have to use my own voice. Many people stared at me as if I had committed a crime, and people were chattering about i (some good and some bad).

Please tell me what you think and, if possible, I would like the opinions of others

Crushed, Buffalo, New York Dear Crushed.

Eve seen and heard these little Bingo devices a couple of times, and thought they were rather cute. I personally would not use one because when I am close to a Bingo my adrenaline is numning so fast that I need to shout "Bingo" just to release some of the nervous energy. Plus, I don't want to waste a single second reaching for a little machine and pressing a button. I want the world to onow instantly that the jackpot is MINE!

That said. I do not have a clue why the aller would har the use of the device. My guess is that he does not want to be listening for anything but a human voice calling Bingo. Perhans he has come across these machines before, and someone hit the button by mistake during a game or kept showing it to other players and making it so "Bines "Bingo" "Bingo" over and over again, which Whatever his reasoning. I'm sure his intention was not to embarrass you, but simply to let people know that the device was not welcome during his games.

Maybe any callers out there could write in and let us know if they have any insights on this issue. -Aunt Bingo Send your questions, good news, general

Getting Full Value from a Full House By Jonathan Little

Early in an eight-handed $3,500 buy-in tournament with 100/200 blinds with 15,000 effective stacks, the player first to act raised to 500 out of his 10,000 stuck and it folded around to you on the button with KcKd.

While three-bet would induce the initial raiser to fold out all of their junk, which you want to keen in the not so three-betting and getting money in against your opponent's reasonable hands is usually best. Calling only has merit if you expect your opponent to fold far too often against your three-bet. One major benefit of calling with premium bands like A.A and K.K is that it strengthens your calling range allowing you to call with a slightly wider range of speculative hands such as K-9 suited and 10-8 suited.

You decide to call this time and everyone else folds. The flop comes AcAhKs, giving you a full house. Your opponent checks. Considering your opponent's range after they check, they either have an ace that will pay you off no matter what, an unlikely king that you can get value from on the turn and river, a weak underpair (Q-Q, 8-8, 4-4) that will likely call a flop bet but then fold to bets on the turn or river, or nothing.

Since you are not concerned with cetting outdrawn and you would love for your opponent to bluff the turn and/or river with their junk, checking makes the most sense. However, if you get the vibe that your opponent is slow playing a premium hand like an ace, bet and get money in the pot

You check behind. The turn is the 6h and our opponent bets 700 into the 1,500 pot. Many players make the mistake of raising even though it does not make strategic sense. The ideal play is to keep your opponent in the pot with their flush draws and pairs that will fold to a raise. If your opponent has an ace, they will usually get all in by the river, so you should not be concerned with them. Calling keeps your opponent in the not and gives them a chance to play for the rest of their chips on the river if they feel inclined. You call and the river is the 4c. Your opponent bets 2,000 into the 2,900 pot. Some players make the mistake of calling in this spot because they fear being beaten by an unlikely full house. While you do lose to pocket A-A, A-K, A-6s, and A-4s, there are substantially more hands in your opponent's range that you beat with your full house.

The time has come to put your opponent all in and make them play for the rest of their You go all in and your opponent quickly calls with As10d, awarding you with a full double up.

The Color Purple

-Kent, Illinois, via e-mail

Here's a funny story for you. One of my Bingo playing friends showed up at Bingo with purple hands. I'm talking super dark purple, like he'd been soaking them in a vat of wine or something. Of course, I asked him why his hands were purple, and he said that his wife got this idea to make her own dauber ink and refill her empties. She came up with some kind of recipe then made him help her fill the old bottles. Well, according to him, the numle ink she'd made oot all over everything-their clothes, the rug, the counter, even the curtains-and now it won't wash off! He even lifted his shirt to show us his pumle belly! It was hilarious!

Dear Kent

What a hoot! And not just the part about purple mess, but also that someone would go to the trouble to try and refill daubers with homemade ink. Maybe this lady thought she was saving money by reusing the plastic bottles, but in the end may have spent more on the supplies to make the ink, not to mention the cost of replacing the various household items! (Maybe they should consider just dying the entire stained rug in the same purple?) Do me a favor and send a follow-up e-mail and let me know how long it takes for your friend's purple hands and belly to go back to normal. -Guy

Easy Breakfast Saves Time and Money

Fuel Your Busy Days With DIY Instant Outmeal: Easy, Nutritious and Customizable

With the return of Fall and the school year comes a more regimented schedule. Mornings are hectic and anything that relieves stress is a good thing. And making mornings easier isn't just for families heading back to school! We can all use a little help to ensure an easy start to our days

One way to reduce stress is to have inexpensive, nutritious and delicious break fast that cooks in only one minute. I'm hanny to share my secret weapon to destress nornings: DIY instant outmeal packets.

Yes, you can buy premade instant oatmeal nackets inexpensively, but look! The average cost is about 50 cents a packet, and most people eat at least two. Making them yourself brings the cost down to 20 cents per packet or less. And you get to make them exactly how you like them. You can reduce the sugar and make flavor combinations the Quaker dude never thought of.

DIV INSTANT OATMEAL PACKETS Yield: Annrovimately 18 nackets

10 cups mick outs divided I teasnoon salt I cup brown sugar, or more to taste l cup powdered milk, optional 2 tablespoons cinnamon 1 to 2 cups add-ins, optional (see below for ideas) 18 to 20 snack-size zip-top bags

Put 7 cups of the cats in a large bowl. Place the remaining 3 cups of oats in a food processor or blender. Blend until powdery. then pour into the bowl with the whole oats

Add the salt, brown sugar, powdered milk (see tip below) and cinnamon in the large bowl. Mix well until combined. Measure 1/2 cup of the oatmeal mixture along with 1 to 2 tablespoons of add-ins into each snack-size zip-top baggie and seal. Store the baggies in your pantry, or in the freezer for the longest shelf life.

Tip: If you prefer making oatmeal with milk, you can skip the powdered milk altogether. For cost-saving options, try using a combination of half milk and half water Personally. I find that making it with milk during cooking enhances the flavor compared to prine water and nonviered milk To use the packets: Pour the contents of a packet in a bowl and add the desired amount of water or milk. Start with 2/4 curs and adjust to the thickness you desire. Microwave on high for 1 minute, stir and serve. Now here's the fun part. You can put whatever goodies you like into your oatmeal packets. Some ideas: raisins, pumpkin pie spice freeze dried etrawberries dried blueberries and slivered almonds any variety of trail mix, mini chocolate chins and coconut, dried cranberries and pistachios, dried bananas and walnuts, dried apple and crystallized ginger chopped pecans and maple syrup. The list

You can also use these packets for overnight cotmeal. Just place the contents of a nacket in a bowl, add milk or milk substitute, and refrigerate overnight. Serve cold or heat in the microwaye Bonus! The plastic baggies can be reused many times because they don't get dirty. Start your days off right with these convenient and budget-friendly DIY instant ontmeal packets. With just a minute away from a wholesome meal, you'll have more time, money and peace of mind to tackle whatever the day brings. So, stock up on these delightful packets and savor the stress-free mornings ahead!

Better Odds with Strategy Cards

When I walk through the aisles of a casino. I'm amazed to find so few players using a strategy card when they play video poker. Why anyone would choose not to have the answers right in front of them when they're risking their hard-earned money is beyond me. I teach video poker, yet you will never see me playing without a strategy card. just in case a hand shows up that I am not 100% sure about how to play correctly. By double-checking my strategy card, I always make the correct decision. So please don't be embarrassed using a strategy card—all smart

Let's suppose you want to play jacks-or-better video poker. On the Dancer/Daily is the preferred play. In this example it's Jacks-or-Better strategy card you will find four different common pay tables and the corresponding return percentage. The best or full pay" pay table returns 99.54% while the least desirable pay table returns only 97.3%. Armed with your strategy card you can walk into any casino and scout around checking the pay tables you see on the video poker machine to the pay tables on the strategy card. This will help you locate the highest paying jacks-or-better machine in the casino. It's easy when you have your strategy card

Once you are ready to play, you need to know how to play your hands. That's where the strategy card comes in real handy. The Dancer/Daily cards have four levels of strategy imprinted on them, from beginner to recreational, to basic to advanced. As the strategy level increases the complexity of the playing strategy also increases. I would trongly encourage a beginner to begin with you master and feel comfortable using that strategy proceed to the next level. For most casual players, playing at Level 2 or 3 is quite sufficient.

Q: What are the worst slot machines to play in the casino?

A: These would be the "progressive" or "linked" machines that offer escalating jackpots. These machines typically return 85% of the total money bet. But if you enjoy playing progressives, don't anchor yourself to just one machine and fixate on the top prize. This is like buying round-trip tickets on the Titanic. You can kiss your money bon voyage. Here's a better idea from the sultan of slots. Frank Scoblete. "No matter how many progressives there are in the casino play them all. And always bet maximum coin for a total of three spins per slot. That's three max spins for Megabucks, three may spins for Wheel of Fortune, etc." Frank has a good idea here. In fact, the next time you read or hear of a player who has hit a giant jackpot, see if they invested only $10 to $40 and played only 5 to 20 minutes before

Q: When playing a slot machine, does having a positive attitude help?

A: Not really. A positive attitude at a slot machine is simply a wishful-thinking fantasy-a mental four-leaf clover or rabbit's foot. Today's slot machine is a computer in slot's clothing, and a player's attitude has no effect on the tiny computer chip that determines the game's outo The best attitude to have at a slot machine or any other casino game, is to be optimistic out realistic.
